

EMHS LiveSAFE in the Community

In its sixth year, the Antique Appraisal Show has again successfully benefited the EMHS LiveSAFE program, which provides emergency response services to elderly and disabled residents throughout Maine. The antique appraisal show featured Bruce A. Buxton, a licensed qualified appraiser, known for his entertaining and lively style. In four hours, Bruce appraised more than 100 antiques, raising $1,740. All proceeds benefit low income subscribers to EMHS LiveSAFE.

Rosscare LiveSAFE is a personal emergency response system that provides added security for anyone living alone. With the touch of a button, an individual is ensured a quick response to any emergency, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. LiveSAFE allows individuals to enjoy living safely and independently in their own homes, giving them peace of mind for themselves, and their families.

It takes only a matter of minutes for an accident to happen. For a senior, a slip, trip, or fall can be a matter of life or death. Rosscare's LiveSAFE emergency response service allows many of our community members to remain safe and independent in their own homes. Through the Rosscare LiveSAFE Fund, we feel fortunate to be able to assist community members who need the help button, but are unable to afford its full monthly fee, with a reduced rate to help them obtain this valuable life-saving service.

We want to share with you one of many thank you messages we have received from grateful recipients of the Rosscare LiveSAFE Fund to show how much this service means to those who rely on it: "I would like to thank LiveSAFE for their service. I have seizures and have had to use LiveSAFE to call for help. If it wasn't for LiveSAFE, I would not have had the help to take me to the hospital and this might have cost me my life." – Clifford Kimball, Bucksport
